

We rode into the Taylor Fork on Feb 13, We saw four persistent slab avalanches that likely broke last weekend or at the beginning of the week. All appeared to be snowmobiler-triggered R1-2, D1.5-2 avalanches at broke of the January layer of near-surface facets and surface hoar. Photo: GNFAC

Advisory Region
Southern Madison
Longitude
-111.27W

Latitude

45.06N

Avalanche Details: Persistent Slab Avalanches in Taylor Fork

Southern Madison, 2025-02-13